A NISEI remembers

A PAINFUL CHAPTER IN AMERICAN HISTORY

Wednesday, September 27
11:00 am to Noon
Auburn Hills Campus
F-Building, Room 123

This event is proudly sponsored by the Auburn Hills Campus English Department.

Concentration camps in America? Yes, we had them, during World War II. After the bombing of Pearl Harbor, President Roosevelt ordered the internment of over 120,000 Japanese-Americans, many of them U.S. citizens. Mary Kamidoi was one of those interned Nisei (2nd generation Japanese-Americans), spending three years in a concentration camp in Arkansas. Today, she tells her personal story of those dark days in the hope we won't repeat the mistake we made in our past.
